SL court orders resumption of mass grave excavation

COLOMBO
A SRI LANKAN court has ordered the recommencement of excavation work on a mass grave in Chemmani, on the outskirts of Jaffna, which first came into focus during the LTTE conflict in the 1990s, seven months after it was halted. The excavation work in Chemmani in the Northern Province came to a halt in September last year due to the pending new allocation of funds by the Ministry of Justice. The Jaffna magistrate's court was told on Tuesday that LKR 2.1 million allocation has been made available so that work can be resumed. The court granted permission for diplomatic representatives from the EU, France, Germany, Italy and Romania to be present for observations at the excavation site. When the second stage of work was halted after 45 days, 240 skeletal remains had been excavated. Apart from the skeletons, 14 piles of bones and items such as feeding bottles for infants, a doll, toys and children's bags and shoes were dug out. The work was to be carried out over eight more weeks as per the August 14 report submitted by the judicial medical officer of Jaffna to Jaffna magistrate. PTI

Trump warns Iran better 'get smart soon', accept proposed nuclear deal

Tehran signals defiance amid stalled negotiations as rial plunges and economic strain deepens

TEHRAN

US President Donald Trump warned Tehran on Wednesday that it should "get smart soon" and capitulate to Washington's demands for tight controls on its nuclear programme, as a US naval blockade turned the screws on Iran's economy. Defense Secretary Pete Hegseth said congressional Democrats are "the biggest adversary we face" as he parried questioning from lawmakers on Wednesday for the first time since the launch of the war against Iran. And the Pentagon's chief financial officer released a detail Democrats have been demanding, saying the war has cost an estimated $25 billion and counting. However, US press reports suggested Trump has already decided to reject Iran's latest proposed deal to reopen the Strait of Hormuz. The news sent oil prices higher once again. At around 1335 GMT, a barrel of Brent crude for June delivery was up 5.16 per cent at $117, its highest level since the fragile ceasefire between the United States and Iran came into effect on April 8. According to the Wall Street Journal, Trump intends to pursue the blockade of Iranian ports until Tehran is forced to dismantle its nuclear programme. "Iran can't get their act together... They better get smart soon," Trump posted on his social media platform, above a mocked-up picture of himself totting a rifle in front of explosions wrecking a desert fortress and the slogan: "No more Mr Nice Guy." US may extend Iran blockade

The United States could extend its naval blockade of Iran for months more, oil executives were told in a meeting with Donald Trump, a White House official said on Wednesday. Participants at a White House meeting, which took place Tuesday and was first reported by Axios, discussed "the steps President Trump has taken to alleviate global oil markets and steps we could take to continue the current blockade for months if needed and minimise impact on American consumers," said the official, speaking on condition of anonymity. On Wednesday, the Iranian rial fell to historic lows against the dollar, while Tehran residents speaking to AFP journalists in Paris reported a sense of despair. "Every time in recent years that negotiations have taken place, the economic situation of the people has only gotten worse. Sanctions have either started or intensified," a 52-year-old architect told AFP, speaking on condition of anonymity. "They go to negotiate and come back with even more sanctions, and the issue is always nuclear. There's no talk about people, the economy, or freedom..." he said. Iran warns war not over Iranian army spokesman told state TV on Tuesday that "we do not consider the war to be over", saying Tehran had "no trust in America". "We have many cards that we have not yet used... new tools and methods of fighting based on the experiences of the past two wars, which will definitely allow us to respond to the enemy more decisively" should the fighting resume, Amir Akraminia said in an interview. Efforts to end the war have stalled in recent days. The latest Iranian proposal, passed along by Pakistan and studied by Trump administration officials in a meeting Monday, laid out red lines including on nuclear issues and Hormuz, according to Iran's Fars news agency. AFP

Protocol breached, private talk with Charles revealed

LONDON

In the world of diplomatic faux pas, it could have been a lot worse. At Tuesday's state dinner honouring King Charles III and Queen Camilla, Donald Trump said that during a private meeting earlier in the day the British monarch had agreed with him that Iran should never be allowed to have nuclear weapons. "We're doing a little West Asia work right now ... and we're doing very well," Trump told the audience. "We have militarily defeated that particular opponent, and we're never going to let that opponent ever — Charles agrees with me, even more than I do — we're never going to let that opponent have a nuclear weapon." While many Britons would agree with the president's sentiment, the comment triggered mild consternation among pundits in the UK. In Britain, this just isn't done. By convention, people aren't supposed to relay private conversations with the monarch. That is partly because the king has to remain above the political fray, but also because the sovereign doesn't have the ability to wade into a public debate and correct the record if he's misquoted. "Generally, as a matter of protocol, I think I would expect discussions between heads of state to be sort of behind the scenes, in those closed meetings, for those to be sort of kept private," said Craig Prescott, an expert on constitutional law and the monarchy at Royal Holloway, University of London. "And, you know, this was something that the UK government wanted to avoid." There had been a fair amount of jitters before the king's trip to the US, which comes amid Trump's very public frustration with UK Prime Minister Keir Starmer over his failure to support US actions in the Iran war. Like all royal visits, this is a carefully choreographed diplomatic event carried out at the request of the UK government.
